

Alice Vollenweider & Hugo Loetscher
Culinarities

Published by Diogenes as Kulinaritäten
Original title: Kulinaritäten

Correspondence on Culinary Arts and Culture.

A cookery book for the stomach and the mind: Alice Vollenweider, connoisseur of Italian cuisine and culture, literary critic and author of many cookbooks, and Hugo Loetscher, the cosmopolitan, well-travelled Swiss author intimately acquainted with cuisines from all over the world, exchange letters full of recipes, reflections, teasing, culinary bon mots and mutual admiration.

Their letters are like a condensed cultural history of the kitchen. The reader finds out about the origins of well-known and less well-known dishes and modern-day cookery, about the authors' own approach to food – and about practical details too, like how to make the perfect risotto.

Hugo Loetscher (1929 – 2009) was one of Switzerland's most famous writers with novels such as Sewage and The Immune Man. In his role as journalist, he travelled to Latin America, Southeast Asia and the USA regularly. He always held a particular interest in photography. Hugo Loetscher, who lived in Zurich, was a visiting lecturer at universities in Switzerland, the USA, Germany and Portugal; and a member of the Darmstadt Academy for Language and Poetry. In 1992, he was awarded the ›Schiller Prize‹ by Switzerland's Schiller Foundation.

Praise (cont'd)

»Hugo Loetscher is a wonderful narrator whose formulation of weighty thoughts is as light as a feather.« – Sonntags Zeitung, Zurich

»Punchlines, quirky humour, startling observations, witty comments – there's never a moment of boredom with Hugo Loetscher.« – Jürg Altwegg / Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung
