Otto Jägersberg Keine zehn Pferde

Gedichte · Diogenes

There is just as much room in Otto Jägersberg's poems for bitter regret over a vanished bicycle as there is for praise for mashed potatoes, the insight that football helps or a warning about what happens when you kiss the wrong women. A poetic cosmos full of substance, woe and wit.

Praise

Poems

»Poems about everyday life and aging – masterful, ironic, relaxed. Every poem a bullet to the heart.« – Elke Heidenreich / Stern, Hamburg

»Jovial poems by an alert master of irony.« – Jochen Kelter / Neue Zürcher Zeitung

»Otto Jägersberg is capable of proving that even poetry, the subtlest and most finely nerved of the three classic literary forms, can make you laugh.« – Jochen Keller / Stuttgarter Zeitung

»The poet Jägersberg is an insider's tip.« – Gunhild Kübler / Neue Zürcher Zeitung

»Otto Jägersberg's poems are connected by stylishly light depictions of moods with thoughtful depth, witty observations with profound melancholy, everyday phrases with poetic brilliance.« – Ronald Schneider / Rheinische Post, Düsseldorf

Otto Jägersberg

»How does Otto Jägersberg write? Well, you can enjoy his lines of poetry and prose in sips, but you may become tipsy quite fast in the process.« – Frank Lorentz / Welt am Sonntag

»It is a pleasure to follow this wandering rascal.« – Nils Jensen / Buchkultur, Vienna

»[Jägersberg's] punchlines have something so sublimely casual to them, as though the comedy were springing forth organically from the depicted events, or rather, more frequently, from the language.« – Frank Schäfer / taz, Berlin
