Roman · Diogenes

For the immune man, the world, from his earliest childhood, is a stage. He nevertheless uses his talent for telling stories and observing the world in order to 'immunise' himself against brutality and hypocrisy. How else could one suffer this world? In a self-critical analysis of the I in the form of an abundance of short stories, Hugo Loetscher describes the epoch in which this ego developed.

Praise

Hugo Loetscher

»Hugo Loetscher is a wonderful narrator whose formulation of weighty thoughts is as light as a feather.« – Sonntags Zeitung, Zurich

»Punchlines, quirky humour, startling observations, witty comments – there's never a moment of boredom with Hugo Loetscher.« – Jürg Altwegg / Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung

Hugo Loetscher (1929 – 2009) was one of Switzerland's most famous writers with novels such as Sewage and The Immune Man. In his role as journalist, he travelled to Latin America, Southeast Asia and the USA regularly. He always held a particular interest in photography. Hugo Loetscher, who lived in Zurich, was a visiting lecturer at universities in Switzerland, the USA, Germany and Portugal; and a member of the Darmstadt Academy for Language and Poetry. In 1992, he was awarded the ›Schiller Prize‹ by Switzerland's Schiller Foundation.
