

Gabriella Gamberini Zimmermann
Brunetti's Miscellany

Published by Diogenes as Mit Brunetti durchs Leben
Original title: Brunetti's Miscellany

General Fiction
400 pages
11.6 x 18.4 cm
June 2021

World rights are handled by Diogenes

Mit Brunetti durchs Leben

Brevier für nachdenkliche Optimisten

Diogenes

Why do readers all over the world love Brunetti like a friend with whom they've gone through thick and thin? Probably because he's as much a philosopher as he is a detective. He strives tirelessly to understand his fellow human beings. As an Italian, bon vivant and family man, he believes in the good life, despite all the hindrances and villains around us. This book is a collection of the best observations from the most renowned, smartest and popular commissario around: An ABC of the art of living.

»He reads, he's witty, and he can be ironic too. He is happily married, has lovely children and leads a respectable life - even before his first appearance, I knew that he would be someone I liked.«

Donna Leon

Photo: privat

Gabriella Gamberini Zimmermann, born in France in 1957, emigrated to Venice, where Donna Leon was one of her close neighbours for a number of years.