Roman · Diogenes

Among the ›Papers of an Immune Man‹ can be found the story of a man who invites guests to his own funeral feast as well as the story of another man who plans an assassination in a house of waxworks; the reader encounters a puppet murderer, a sinful priest; a rebel from the Peasants' War; a nursery rhyme becomes a political issue; and Leporello's aria of the cities can be heard. This and other ›papers‹ are mirrors and counter-images of the immune man, his interpretations and longings...

Praise

Hugo Loetscher

›Hugo Loetscher is a wonderful narrator whose formulation of weighty thoughts is as light as a feather.« – Sonntags Zeitung, Zurich

›Punchlines, quirky humour, startling observations, witty comments – there's never a moment of boredom with Hugo Loetscher.« – Jürg Altwegg / Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung

Hugo Loetscher (1929 – 2009) was one of Switzerland's most famous writers with novels such as Sewage and The Immune Man. In his role as journalist, he travelled to Latin America, Southeast Asia and the USA regularly. He always held a particular interest in photography. Hugo Loetscher, who lived in Zurich, was a visiting lecturer at universities in Switzerland, the USA, Germany and Portugal; and a member of the Darmstadt Academy for Language and Poetry. In 1992, he was awarded the ›Schiller Prize‹ by Switzerland's Schiller Foundation.
